The Congregational parish meeting in the church vestry Wednesday evening was well attended. A bountiful supper at 6:45 o'clock was followed by a business session with Hon. Albert J. Stearns, moderator. The pastor's salary was increased $200 and a vote was passed to attend any extensive repairs on the church office one year. The minister's annuity fund was discussed and left with the financial committee for action.

Mrs. Clara A. Hayden who celebrated her 93rd birthday last week was very appreciative of the many tokens of remembrance which she received from her many friends.

Miss Livie McAllister recently lost her hand bag. She was much perplexed as it contained a goodly sum of money. That evening when Walter Poindexter appeared at the window to get a ticket for the show he handed her the bag, saying he picked it up in the street. All the money was in it and Miss McAllister was greatly pleased.

BASKET BALL

Woodstock H. S. 48; Norway H. S. 46

A single floor basket in the last minute decided a red hot battle at Norway Opera House Saturday evening. Woodstock High School hung another scalp to their belts and carried away the bacon by one of the narrowest margins in their schedule. They have thus far lost no game to any Maine team and about a row of ten scalp locks won this season. It was a mighty close fight and accurate shooting at the basket was the one big club they wielded. Aside from this big stick, Norway duplicated every trick and then some, with even chances to win on the floor work. Inability to toss into the net caused Norway's defeat. They tapped off many baskets in succession during the early minutes in the last period making the score in their favor 28-27. A relapse followed this flash and they barely kept off Woodstock's heels. Shooting three blasts to the visitors one failed to give more than a lead of 6 points, which the visitors overcame and went into a one basket advance.

Nobody dared claim victory during the last ten minutes. The action was speedy with points so quickly reeled off, the score board tenders nearly gave up exhausted. The result hung in the balance, first one then the other added a point or two so the thriller went merrily on.

While Norway was in control of the ball over Woodstock territory a greater part of the last period, they fell down at the ring. Woodstock showing more skill in this trick, caged a larger ratio on fewer chances many long distance shots easily dopped through as if by magic.

Referee Austin was lenient and let the warriors go to it, halts were called when deliberate fouls broke on the surface. Bill Ledger measured up to the personal foul standard and was retired in favor of Ted Brown. Rough and tumble stuff enthused the large crowd of excited spectators and kept every body on tip toes until the final pistol.

Bridgton High 38; N. H. S. 2nd 27

The preliminary game Saturday evening proved snappy and exciting. Both teams appeared about equal during the first period with Bridgton a shade stronger with trick passing and sure catching. During the last half Norway displayed pep and initiative to off set greater weight and experience of the visitors. Bridgton easily negotiated baskets and piled up the points while Norway blazed away freely without locating the bulls eye when ringers were sorely needed. Lafrance and Berry were the most trusty shooters for the home bunch and caged several difficult shots. Hascall replaced Farrington in the last few minutes and put over some nimble floor work. "Stubby" McKay went after the pill at every possible chance and fed the ball easily. Leopold played the high card for Bridgton and as a dead shot for the net at any old angle. Humphries followed him closely for points and neat shooting. The score:

Norway High 42; W. P. H. S. 24

Completely out classed by the Norway team.—West Paris went out on the small end in a return game at West Paris Friday evening. The visitors used two "reserves" in place of the regulars and they behaved nicely under fire. Norway distributed the basket making among four players and a generous crop they captured. Lewis was sent to the stables on the personal foul ruling and Ted Brown cruised in his place. Palmer was also seated by the same rule with Farrington sent in as substitute.

Paul Nevers being unable to judge accurately on the foul line, nailed but a pair from ten chances, something unusual for this wizard. This shortage was made good with floor shots to the tune of 7 baskets. "Mammy" Palmer also clicked off the ringers with remarkable rapidity. In the second half Dyer fell into a running streaks with 5 floor baskets in regular order.

H. Briggs proved a regular one for West Paris and scored practically the whole total for his team. He captured 6 floor baskets and tossed in 8 from a possible 11 on the foul line. So completely did the Norway guards do their work, the home defenders were stalled, except the player with high mark to his credit.

Edmond J. Labossiere

As a result of pleural pneumonia, Edmond J. Labossiere passed away suddenly at his home Thursday morning at 3:30 o'clock. He had been ill about three weeks an abscess in the ear causing the first trouble. Recovering somewhat, he returned to his work and suffered a relapse with pleurisy and an affection of one lung. This passed to the other lung and he failed rapidly, the end coming rather unexpectedly.

Mr. Labossiere was born in Canada thirty-nine years ago, the son of Alex and Else Poro Labossiere. He came to Norway from Berlin, N. H., about twenty year ago and found employment in the lasting room at the B. F. Spinney & Co. factory until the firm removed from town. Later he worked at his trade in the T. J. Plants at Jamaica Plains, Cushman & Hollis, Auburn, and other places, when the Carroll, Jellerson Shoe Co. commenced business here he was among the first to last shoes and has been with the company since. He was a rapid and experienced workman and popular with his shopmates. Being a lover of sports, he became a prominent player on the shop baseball teams and the last few years was a recognized fan at all games in this vicinity.

In 1904 he married Mabel Locke, a Norway girl, who survives. He belonged to no fraternal orders but was a communicant at St. Catherine's Catholic Church and one of its staunch supporters.

Besides his wife, he leaves a father and mother who reside in Berlin, N. H., two sisters and a brother also of Berlin and one brother in Lynn, Mass. Five children also survive: George L. Labossiere, who lives with his grandparents in Norway; Exilda, Alfred, Evelyn and William, all attending the public schools.

Funeral arrangements will be completed upon the arrival of his parents and sisters.

Eugene Lebroke, who has been confined to the house for a week with the grip, resumed work, Wednesday.

B. G. McIntire has reported that $300 of the Oxford County's quota of $400 for the Wilson Foundation Funds has been subscribed and that he has no doubt the whole will be obtained.

George H. B. Parks found a bunch of keys near the shoe shop and in answer to the intelligence ad brought them to the office. The owner was pleased to receive them and George receives $1.00 reward.

Frederick Kilgore, Jr., aged 3 months and 28 days, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kilgore, Beal street, passed away Tuesday with pneumonia after a short illness. Funeral was held at the home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, attended by Rev. C. G. Miller. The remains were placed in the tomb at Norway Pine Grove Cemetery for burial at Waterford.

Norwayites in Florida beware: "The St. Petersburg, Fla., Purity League is taking steps to protect married men from the wiles of sea vamps."

Youngsters are skating on the channel from Ward 8 bridge to Tannery Brook outlet. Ice is rough, but they manage to enjoy themselves.

Rev. T. C. Chapman is on the sick list but expects to occupy the pulpit as usual next Sunday.

Meeting of the Junior Christian Endeavor at the Congregational Church vestry Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Charlotte Longley, leader.

Mrs Emma Cullinan plans to build a six-room bungalow on her lot, corner Elm street and Greenleaf Ave. Work will commence early next spring as practical.

Mrs. O. E. Barnard and two children are ill with the prevailing distemper. One child has recovered and about the house and the other sick ones are gaining slowly.

E. N. Swett Co. Changes Ownership

Eugene N. Swett and Ralph C. Andrews have formed a partnership and bought all but two shares of the Berry Shoe Co.'s interest in the well known E. N. Swett Shoe Co. store. The business changed hands Jan. 1 and the new partners came into full possession on Jan. 31.

Mr. Swett has been identified as one of our prominent business men since June 7, 1886 when he came from South Paris to enter the employ of E. E. Millett where the Blue Store is located. A year later he joined hands with James A. Kenny of South Paris and they bought the Jackson Clark Shoe Store, located many years on the same spot as the present E. N. Swett Shoe Co. store.

Partnership was dissolved in October, 1889 and Mr. Swett returned to the E. E. Millett store where he remained until Jan. 10, 1891. On this date he commenced his upward climb as manager of the Smiley Shoe Store in the Hathwaay Block where the Adams Cafe is doing business.

Something like a year and a half later the Berry Shoe Co. of Portland acquired the Smiley interest but Mr. Swett continued as manager and the affairs continued under the Smiley name. On March 6, 1906 the retail business was incorporated as the E. N. Swett Shoe Co., with Mr. Swett holding a block of stock, other members being A. H. Berry and H. L. Berry, both of Portland. The corportation flourished and increased their annual sales to sizeable figures under Mr. Swett's able supervision. The name has become a household word for miles around Mr. Swett has fitted shoes to three generations and is proud of that fact, it means service and solid business ability.

Ralph C. Andrews the junior partner is a native of South Paris, a graduate of Paris High School and an all around good fellow. He had a clerkship with his father in the well known firm Eastman & Andrews, South Paris, but resigned in July 1919 to enter Mr. Swett's employ. Mr. Andrews is widely known as a good salesman and a live wire. Up-to-date in every way with new ideas concerning the best ways to display goods and draw business his debut into Norway's mercantile activities will be appreciated by every wide awake citizen.

Twin Towns Shrine Club

At a meeting held Jan. 31 in Masonic Hall, a representative gathering of Nobles of Mystic Shrine met to form a Shrine Club that will include members from Norway, South Paris, West Paris, Oxford, Bethel and adjoining points. This club is to be known as the Twin Towns Shrine Club and elected the following officers and committees:

Pres.—L. M. Carroll.
V. Pres.—Walter L. Gray, F. R. Penley, West Paris; Richard J Stiles, Oxford.
Finance Committee—Perley F. Ripley, chairman, South Paris; A. N. Record, Oxford; Hugh Pendexter, Norway.
Entertainment Team No. 1—Edw. H. Downing, chairman; Elmer D. Packard, Stephen O. Jellerson, Walter L. Gray, Perley F. Ripley.
Entertainment Team No. 2.—D. M. Stewart, chairman; Harold C. Fletcher, Irving O. Barrows, Hugh Pendexter, A. L. Clark.
Entertainment Team No. 3.—Charles S. Akers, chairman; Stuart W. Goodwin, Richard J. Stiles, Stanley Wheeler, E. B. Jackson.

It is proposed to give a series of entertainments, each one under the auspices of the respective teams, and if time permits them a fourth party will be given by a team formed from the ladies.

Judging from the success and popularity of the Lewiston and Auburn Shrine Club this addition to the social events in the Twin Towns will be gladly welcomed by all members within travelling distance of Norway and South Paris.

The two basketball teams of the eighth grade made their first public appearance at Norway Opera House Saturday evening in conjunction with the big teams. The Reds or first squad won over the Blacks, or second squad with a 9-4 score. Reds were: Evelyn Labossiere, lf; Irene Nevers, rf; Della Holt, rg; Lillian Decoteau, lg; Ruth Tracy, c. The Blacks: Dorothy Anderson, lf; Mildred Taylor, rf; Cora Smith, lg; Mary Taylor, rg; Etta Hadley, c. Scores, Irene Nevers 3 floor baskets, 1 foul; Evelyn Labossiere 1 floor basket; Dorothy Anderson, 2 fouls; Mildred Taylor, 1 floor basket.

Lake Temple Pythian Sisters have a Valentine Social arranged to follow the regular meeting Tuesday evening, Feb. 7. Members will bring a plate of refreshments for a buffet lunch.

D. A. R. Notes

February first Abigail Whitman Chapter, D. A. R. met with the Regent, Mrs. Harriet C. Brown, hostess, on Crescent street.

Delegates elected to the Continental Congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Washington, D. C., the week on which the 19th of April falls: the Regent, Mrs. Harriet C. Brown; alternate, Mrs. Harriet King Headrick of New York.

Delegates to the State Council with the Lewiston-Auburn Chapter, March 15 and 16 at Elks Hall, Middle Street, banquet at Pine Street Congregational Church: the Regent, Mrs. Harriet C. Brown, Mrs. Evis I. Cook, Ms. Jennie C. Foster, Mrs. Lena M. Andrews; alternates, Vice-regent, Mrs. Gertrude W. Libby, Mrs. Emma J. Sargent, Mrs. Edith S. Bartlett, Sarah L. Staples.

Mrs. Jennie C. Foster, the historian, read an article on the activities of the chapter the past year and Mrs. Laura A. Sanborn read a selection "After Twenty Years" on the Berry Schools at Mont Berry, Ga. These schools are for the mountain boys and girls and were begun by Martha Berry twenty years ago. Five hundred boys and girls attend the schools and the past year five hundred had to be turned away because of lack of funds to carry on the work. The chapter was also interested in reading the letter from their "French Orphan." The following is the translation:

Marsailles, Dec. 28, 1921.

Dear Benefactors:

I was much surprised on receiving it, (money) and also very happy for my Christmas, I can never tell you how much I thank you, but I assure you I never will forget your noble benefits.

For my Christmas I had a beautiful horse, with which I amuse myself much.

Thanks to your association which does not forget the little orphans.

I will say to you that my health is good and send many good wishes to my benefactors. A good and happy year to you.

Your little protege and his mother remembers you sincerely.

Louis Onacardo.

This was a valentine party and the roll call was answered by valentines by the members. One follows:

Dear St. Nichoias,
Be my valentine.
Guardian of children,
Bless and direct us:—
Give us joy and fun;
Give us light hearts;
Give us laughter;
Give us old friends;
Give us new friends;
Give us goodness;
Give us kindness;
Give us of thy truth,
Thy love, thy peace.

The game making the most words from "valentine" was won by and prizes given to Mrs. Evis I. Cook and Mrs. Eva C. Kimball.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Brown assisted her mother, Mrs. Oxnard and Mrs. Brown's two sons.

Committee Meeting For Firemen's Ball

A joint meeting of the various committees appointed to stage the first annual Norway Firemen's Benefit Relief Association Ball was held at Engine House hall Wedesday evening.

The matter was carefully considered from every angle with a result, the affair as planned will go down in local history as one of the biggest times Norway ever held in this line. Old Fashioned is a good expression for the affair to go through at Norway Opera House on Feb 28. Contra dances will be featured before intermission and the old settlers can limber up when the old dance tunes are reeled off by the Norway and Paris orchestra of ten pieces. "Uncle" John Hazelton of Portland will prompt as in former days. After intermision the young people can have the floor and jazz until a late hour.

There will be the old time march and circle at eight o'clock sharp followed by an order of sixteen numbers with John W. Lasselle as floor manager. He has selected the following firemen as aids. Edwin Richardson, George E. Emerson, Osman F. Hill, Arthur L. Gammon, Homer R. Luck, Harold A. Anderson, Theodore R. Frost, Ernest M. Noyes, Edward L. Burnell, H. Knox Bickford and Harry V. Cole. Honorary aids will be chosen from departments in surrounding towns, their names to be announced later, Decorations will be suggestive with flags, bunting and firemen's equipment. Refreshments are to be served during the entire evening and will be put out right. R. C. Bicknell and A. G. Blacquire were chosen to make all arrangements when necessary for out of town patrons wishing over night accommodations.

A union meeting of all firemen will be held at Engine House hall, Wednesday evening, Feb. 15, when tickets will be distributed for a systematic canvass. Every fireman has promised to boost and work to make this event the largest dance for numbers and a record breaker for Community sociability. Undoubtedly a magnificent fund will be realized for local relief work.

Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent, Daughters of Veterans, held their regular meeting Friday evening with a good attendance and every officer present. Mrs. Eva Kimball was installed as guide as she was unable to be present at installation. Committees for the year were appointed as follows:

Flower and Fruit Com.—Carrie Tucker and Mrs. Elizabeth Sampson.
Visiting Com.—Mrs. Nina Felt, Mrs. Emma Swan, Mrs. Flora Newcomb, Mrs. Flora Abbott and Mrs. Ethel French.
Com. on Entertainment Next Meeting—Harriett Knight, Mrs. Ida Gammon and Mrs. Eva Fogg.

Lincoln's Birthday will be commemorated. Mrs. Elizabeth Sampson was appointed degree mistress for the year. Meetings will commence at 7:30 sharp, until further notice.

A penny lunch and social was held following the business session with several guests present. Miss Florence Marston, who is in New Jersey this winter, sent a box for the lunch, but as it arrived the following day, it will be kept until the next meeting, the contents not being perishable. The work will be exemplified at the meeting of February 10 and light refreshments will be served.

C. B. Cummings & Sons Co. are putting automatic sprinklers in their mills. Frozen ground is being thawed and pipes laid connecting with the Norway Water Co. mains on Bridge street.

Petition to Remove Sheriff Cole

Removal of Harry D. Cole, Sheriff of Oxford County is asked in a petition and complaint by Attorney Ralph T. Parker of Rumford and other citizens to Attorney General R. W. Shaw of Augusta. The charges alleged Sheriff Cole had not faithfully and effectively performed his duties, with numerous specific instances cited. It is alleged he sanctioned gambling at Andover, Canton and the Oxford County fairs last September and attempted to obstruct the administration of justice by removing Fred A. Weeks, one of his deputies, who closed various booths where gambling was alleged to have been in operation.

A hearing before the governor and council has been ordered, to be held on Friday, Feb. 10.

Hon. John F. Merrill

Hon. John F. Merrill of Quincy, Mass., a native of Norway, passed away at the City Hospital in Boston, Saturday night, as a result of being knocked down and run over by a wagon, corner of Castle and Washington Streets, Boston, the previous day.

Mr. Merrill was born in Norway 72 years ago, the son of Deacon Samuel Merrill of Norway Center. He was reared in and around Norway village and educated in the public schools and later became teacher in the several districts. About forty-two years ago he started a grocery business at Quincy, Mass., and followed this many years. He was sent by a large vote to the Massachusetts legislature in 1888, also to the senate in 1893. The last twenty years he has been a member of Norfolk County Commissioners and actively engaged in real estate, particularly in a large tract at Nantasket Beach.

The deceased was identified with the Masonic fraternity, the Odd Fellows and many other fraternal and civic bodies.

He leaves a widow, and a daughter, in Boston.

Mrs. Persis C. York

After three years of confinement to her bed while suffering with erysipelas in the feet, Mrs. Persis C. York, widow of William F. York, passed away Monday morning at 10:30. She contracted a cold but no symptoms developed to cause serious alarm until a short time before death. Her mind was clear to the last, and she passed out easily as one dropping to sleep. A general physical collapse due to her advanced age is given as the cause of her sudden death. Her age was 98 years and 4 months.

Mrs. York was born in Greenwood on Sept. 13, 1823, the daughter of Benjamin and Mary (Morgan) Hicks. Her parents were among the first settlers in that town and she frequently told her early recollections of life in a log cabin and district schools in a barn. She passed the early years at home, being gifted for housekeeping and cooking, her services were in demand. During middle life she was employed many years in families and hotels at Lovell, Shelburn, N. H., Bethel and in other towns while supporting a family of small children. Mrs. York frequently recalled the days when a first-class cook received less than two dollars a week and board.

Mrs. York was twice married, her first husband was Charles Bell of Albany and resided on Bell Hill. They had two children, J. Edwin Bell and Annette M. Bell, now Mrs. Samuel L. Fogg, both residing in South Paris. Since the death of her second husband, she made her home with her daughter who lived in Albany on a farm in the Wescott Neighborhood. Some years ago the family moved to South Paris, and since the daughter's marriage to Mr. Fogg, have resided on Alpine street near Oxford Park.

To within three years, Mrs. York had been in good health and remarkbaly active. Since becoming unable to walk, she has passed the days sewing patchwork for quilts without the aid of eye glasses and in her methodical way did a certain amount every tweny-four hours.

Intensely interested in affairs about home, she planned the garden and other work with her son-in-law, and retained this interest to the day of her death. Ever cheerful and optimistic, with a firm belief in immortality, she suffered without complaint and crossed the river with a smile.

The deceased was a member of no church but attended Christian Science services while living in another state, and read extensively. She leaves a son, a daughter, four grandchildren and a great grandson.

Services were held at her late home, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, attended by Rev. C. G. Miller. The grandsons acted as bearers, the interment being at Pine Grove Cemetery.

Samuel Morse

Word has been received of the death of Samuel Morse at his home in Minneapolis, Minn. He was the son of the late Deacon Elisha and Ann G. (Parsons) Morse, and was born at South Paris. His age was 68 years. His boyhood was spent at South Paris, but had resided many years in Minneapolis, Minn., where he was successful in business. His wife died some years ago. They were frequent visitors in town, where they always had such pleasant gatherings in the old homestead where Mr. Morse's brother, Alfred, and sister, Anna Morse, reside. The old homestead has been the scene of reunions for many years.

He leaves one son, Arthur Morse, besides his brother and sister at South Paris, another brother, Charles Morse of Minneapolis survives. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at Minneapolis. Burial at Minneapolis.

Mrs. C. O. Turner went to Augusta Thursday to attend the Federation of Woman's Clubs held in that city.

Vernon B. Swett of Newton was the guest of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Swett Saturday and Sunday.

Harry B. Stone has returned from Boston where he spent several days.

Mrs. Joseph Currier has been entertaining her mother, Mrs. B. Briggs of Stratford, N. H.

"Ben" Morse, for many years a conductor on the Grand Trunk, now in the baggage room of the Union Station at Portland, has been spending a few days at Hotel Andrews.

Mrs. Christopher Record of Massachusetts is staying with her mother, Mrs. George Crockett for the present.

THAT BAD BACK

Do you have a dull, steady ache in the small of the back—sharp, stabbing twinges when stooping or lifting—distressing urinary disorders? For bad back and weakened kidneys Norway residents recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Norway man's statement.

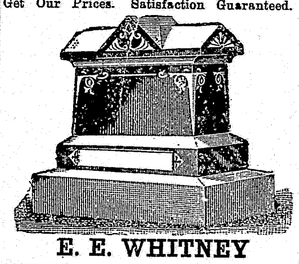

George F. McAlister, ret. farmer, 1 Brown St., says: "I was in awful bad shape with my kidneys some years ago. I couldn't lay in bed with any comfort owing to the steady pain across my back. I was hoeing at the time and I can tell you I was handicapped not being able to get about to do my work. My kidneys did not act regularly and in other ways showed signs of disorder. I picked up a paper and the Doan's Kidney Pills testimony given led me to go to Noyes' Drug Store and get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. After using them I was all right, and went back to work feeling as well as ever. I am only too pleased to tell of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills and recommend them always."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. McAlister had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

DETERMINATION

I used to ponder o'er my ills
And kept my system full of pills,
And read the lore of Dr. Quack,
In my old pill al-man-ac.

I used to hobble round the town
With one hip up and the other down,
My heart I tested every night
To see if it was beating right.

I was weary, sick and lame,
And propped myself up with a cane,
And called on men who 'twas their biz,
To cure the gout and rheumatis.

I changed my mind and sure as sin
I said, "Be-gosh I'll sink or swim,
To think that something's ailing me,
It is all bosh and flummery."

I said, "I'll travel far and see
Just what the hills have got for me."
Both health and strength there I found
Joy and peace did there abound.

I'd climb the jagged cliff so high,
While droning bees went humming by,
I said, "I'll strive whate'er betide,
With this I'll not be satisfied.

To bask in idleness and ease,
And be a victim of disease
And be a shut-in all my days
And never roam these shady ways.

To-day I've kindred that I love,
I'll give thanks to the Lord above,
I feign would tarry a thousand years
And gaze into the shining spheres.

And stand and watch the sunset red
'Neath God's blue canopy overhead,
And view each swift vicissitude
With nature in her youthful mood.

Perhaps it will some life prolong,
Someone who is not well and strong
To know that courage did prevail,
To know I tried and did not fail.

FREDERICK MARSHALL DAVIS.

WEST SUMNER

Edwin Bonney, who has been in failing health for months passed away Saturday, Jan. 28, at the age of 46 years. He was a member of the Union Grange and a respected resident of Sumner and leaves a widow and three children.

Rita Ryerson, who attends Buckfield, is seriously ill with pneumonia. She has a nurse in attendance.

Saturday, Jan 28, the comedy drama, "The Private Tutor" under the auspices of the high school of West Paris was presented here with a good attendance. It was the best comedy play given here for some time.

Kathryn Verill returned to her home in Portland after teaching three weeks at the village school.

Arthur Adams Jr. is recovering from a very severe sickness of pneumonia.

The gale Sunday night did much damage in this section, breaking windows in several homes. It was a dreadful night.

EAST BETHEL

Mrs. Lucetta Bean has gone to Norway Lake, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Witt for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bean of Woodstock were Sunday guests of relatives here.

Laura Cummings of Bethel was over the week end guest of Mrs. Carrie Bartlett and family.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Kimball of Bethel were over night guests of their daughter, Mrs. John H. Howe and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Farwell were Sunday guests of their daughter, Mrs. B. J. Bussell and family, Rumford Falls.

Birthday Party

A very happy event, greatly enjoyed was the gathering by invitation of many friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hutchins Saturday evening, Jan. 28. This affair was in honor of their guests, who were Miss Josephine Johnson, Mr. Wm. Johnson and friend Doris Kerr all of South Paris. One very pleasing feature of this delightful evening was a delicious birthday cake decorated with twenty-one candles all ablaze in honor of Miss Doris Kerr's birthday, which proved to be her one very complete surprise. Miss Kerr very graciously cut the cake which was served with ice cream and other dainties. The time passed quickly with music old time games and an evening of perfect of enjoyment.

EAST OTISFIELD

The members of the Free Baptist Circle met at the home of Mrs. Arthur Bean January 25. In spite of the fact that the thermometer ws below the zero mark twenty-two ladies were present. The forenoon was spent in work, and at noon a delightful dinner was served by the hostess. During the afternoon work was continued and was brought to a close with a trip through the home of Dr. G. T. Elliott. This is one of the most beautiful homes in town, and the trip was much enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Lewis Bean, Feb. 8.

BOY SCOUT NEWS IN OXFORD COUNTY

Towns that have Boy Scout Organizations and troops:

Bethel—Has a growing troop. Has increased six members in the last month. Scout work has left the semi-active stage of last year and is alive. The boys are commencing to take a new interest in the work and are showing mighty good progress. Several badges of advanced work are to be given in the near future. The formation of the Advisory Board for community backing is well underway and is being well received by the men as well as creating much enthusiasm amongst the boys. 26 boys.

Locke's Mills—Has a live troop. Several badges for scout work accomplished have been awarded lately and several more will be awarded in the near future. The troop is growing in numbers and interest. The troop is backed by a live troop committee of influential men who are interested in the welfare of their boys. 14 boys.

West Paris—New era of scouting in this town. The whole town is alive to Scouting. There is an Advisory Board formed as well as a Court of Honor, consisting of 25 men actual backers associated with the troop. The troop has increased from 14 to 31 members within a month and a half and all previous records have been surpassed by the boys in actual scout work performed. The interest is running very high amongest the boys. This is largely due to the new face that has been placed on scouting by the co-operative backing received from the men and community in general. 31 boys.

Norway—Is awake. A new interest in scouting is developing amongest the citizens of the town as well as the boys. The Advisory Board is well underway and when organized, will form a powerful body of men to promote scouting in Norway. Edward Brown is scoutmaster. The troop is awake and working. The boys are organized and out this year to place Norway on the map in Scouting. The boys have got the Norway Spirit and aided with the new community spirit that is fast growing, there is no question but what Norway will have one of the leading troops in the county. 42 boys.

South Paris—The Advisory Board is already formed in this town and includes 10 men, Dr. Stuart, Robert Wheeler, Albert Parks, Guy Swett, Sherman Oliver, Charles Howard, Arthur Forbes, George Colby, Sherman Ordway and Wesley Hammond. This new form of organization is taking well and is the fore runner of a successful Boy Scout troop in this town. There is a small troop organized at the present time. Earle Clifford is scoutmaster.

Buckfield—Advisory Board formed and working. Troop is reorganizing and new interest is gathering. Several badges awarded lately.

Canton—Advisory Board is formed and boys are ready. Will be under way within a few weeks.

Dixfield, Oxford, West Sumner, West Bethel, are underway on this new plan and everything in favor of Scouting within the coming month.

Bryant Pond is also organizing at the present with good prospects.

BETHEL

Bethel Grange

Bethel Grange had a regular meeting January 19 at 7:30 p. m. The roads not being very good, the attendance was not so large. Meeting opened in form, followed by business, several applications were received and four candidates balloted on.

A short program was given which included quotations by the officers from the writings of Walt Mason; a report of the delegates Brother George Hapgood and Sister Hapgood were given, which gave a period of much interest to the members as the work of the State Grange covers a wide field. The meeting closed to meet the first Thursday evening in February.

Bethel Grange is increasing its membership and is in a prosperous condition, and much interest is manifested. Eighteen members responded to an invitation to meet with Round Mountain Grange, Albany, Saturday, January 19. Those attending were George Hapgood and wife Herman Mason and wife, Will Hapgood, Frank Billings, Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. Ella Lyon, Mrs. Sidney Jodrey, Mrs. Emma Jordan, Mrs. Ella Copeland, Grace Wheeler, Zenas Merrill, L. Morse, Mary Godwin, Mary Brown, Yvonne York and Eva Hastings, and as one member expressed it, "we had a perfectly gorgeous time." Well, we can testify Round Mt. Grange never does things by halves.

John Anderson is ill at his home.

Mrs. Seth Mason has been confined to the house with a bad cold.

Some of the teachers who were home over the week end last week could not get to their schools until Tuesday, on account of bad roads. The R. F. D. carriers were somewhat bothered, too.

A number are getting their ice from Songo Pond, Albany, as it is a cleaner product than they can get elsewhere.

Ziba Durkee is on the sick list, in fact, there are many suffering with colds and whooping cough is rife among the children.

Skillingston

Mrs. Elias Robinson visited her sister, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffin visited at Milan Chaplin's Saturday night.

MAINE MINERALS

Maine, which ranks thirty-eighth among the states in size (land area 29,895 sq. miles), and thirty-fifth in population (768,014 in 1920), ranked forty-first in the value of mineral products in 1919. On the basis of total number of persons engaged in the mining industries and the average number of wage earners employed it ranked thirty-ninth.

The total value of products of all mines and quarries in the state of Maine in 1919 was $1,823,442, which was a decrease of 11.3 per cent as compared with the corresponding amount for 1909.

The mining and quarrying industries reported for 1919, classified by principal products and listed in the order of value of products, were granite, slate, feldspar, and limestone. In addition to the products indicated by the industry designation, quartz or silica and tourmaline were also produced as a by-product by enterprises engaged in the mining of feldspar. The leading mineral industry in Maine in 1919 was granite quarrying which included 42 enterprises, or 84 per cent of the total number.

CASCO

Horse Drowned

Rauslier Edwards had the misfortune to lose one of his large work horses, Thursday, January 19. During the night Wednesday night a little snow fell, covering the thin ice that froze during the night where they had been cutting the day before. Mr. Edwards accidentally drove onto the thin ice and both horses went in. In their struggle to get out, one horse held the other one down and he was drowned before they could get him out. All the men who were near helped with Raymond Fickett's horses to get them out. One horse was all right.

At the annual church meeting held Wednesday evening, January 18, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

MEN who make their mark in the world are "good traders." They know how to make their dollars go farthest. Now, ask yourself if you are a good trader. Do you part with your dollars too easily? Do you trade them for things of permanent value? And, above all are you accumulating dollars so you can trade? Think! How can you hope to be a real success unless you make yourself a good trader? The answer is a bank account with constant additions to it.

Box Supper

A box supper was held at the Toll Bridge schoolhouse, Saturday night. There was a large crowd and all enjoyed a fine time. There was a guess cake, Harry Holt was the lucky winner. The boxes were many and beautiful. After supper they all played games which all enjoyed very much, both old and young.

Fred Hill was sick with a bad cold a few days last week but is much better at this writing.

Harold McAllister spent the week end at his sister's, Mrs. Arthur Andrews' at Lovell.

W. W. Merrill has been doing Mr. Hill's chores.

Nellie McAllister and Carolyn Hill took dinner with Miss McAllister's sister at Lovell one day last week and they also attended school Friday afternoon.

Frank Hill spent the week end at his home here.

The Cummings Bros., who are fishing here have gone to their home in Bethel for a few days.

Nina McAllister spent Saturday night and Sunday with her cousin, Nellie McAllister.

Frank Barker went to Fryeburg village shopping, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holt and three children called on Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farwell, Sunday.

Mrs. Ruth Buzzel has been sick for the past week.

EAST WATERFORD

Mrs. Clayton McIntire and children were in Albany Sunday, the 29th to see her sister, who is very ill.

Sam Patterson is very sick with a bad stomach trouble.

Elizabeth Walker has been quite sick with a bad cold and cough. They are quite sure it is whooping cough.

Ober Kimball spent Monday night, Jan. 23, with his uncle Warren Kneeland on his way back to Norway. Several of the scholars were unable to get back to school Monday on account of the severe cold and drifted roads.

Mrs. Grace Hilton who has had a hard cough for several weeks is much better.

Sam Damon and mother from Norway were at George Steven's Sunday the 22nd.

There was no meeting at the schoolhouse Sunday owing to so many being sick with bad colds and it is thought several of the children have whooping cough.

George Stevens is hauling pine from the George Kimball lot and landing it at Haskell's mill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hilton were at Edgar Stones at Waterford, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Buck of Hebron and Mrs. Harvey Hodgeman of Upper Glocester have been at their mother's Mrs. Ida Gammon's, called here by the serious illness of their grandfather, Sam Patterson. Billy Walker of Norway is caring for him.

Marjorie Pride came to spend the week end with her parents and is ill with the grip at this writing.

Several teams are hauling corn from the factory and loading a car at Norway.

NORWAY LAKE

Wesley Tucker has been ill and confined to the house several days, but is now able to be out.

Ruby Potter has an abscess on her right hand.

Our teacher, Ruth Elliott, was taken sick last Friday and there has been no school this week. Miss Elliott is improving and is going to her home in North Waterford for the remainder of the week. So many of the scholars are ill with the prevailing distemper that it seems wise to have no school for a few days.

Little Winifred Dunham has been ill with a severe cold but is better.

Mrs. Charles Buck has returned from Portland where she has been for medical treatment.

Mrs. Rolfe, who has been caring for Mrs. Alfred Snow and little daughter, returned Sunday to the village.

Mrs. Lucetta Bean of Bethel is at E. E. Witt's.

Arline Corbett is ill.

WATERFORD

It sounds good to hear the whistle at the steam mill. Mrs. Morse has decided to have it run for a short time.

Bad colds and whooping cough make it very sickly this winter in Waterford.

There were four tables at the whist party at Flora Abbott's, South Waterford last Friday afternoon. The next party will be at Mrs. Albert Hamlin's next Friday evening. Gentlemen and ladies are expected to attend.

SOUTH RUMFORD

May Atwater is ill with tonsilitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Curtis have moved back to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Silver were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Elliott Sunday.

Earl Spaulding and family visited his mother, Mrs. Daniel Spaulding in Mexico, Sunday.

About thirty young people from the Falls were on Zircon Sunday and had dinner at the Zircon Spring House.

LETTER FROM ST. PETERSBURG, FLORIDA

Dear friends: Today is as perfect a Sunday as one could hope to see—the sky is a clear, exquisite blue with fleecy white cloud flecks here and there and a good amount of balmy air stirring. Every one seeks the shade for the direct rays of the sun are very hot. We heard Kerrison Juniper preach as usual at the Congregational Church this morning, where three is always very good music to help the leading thought of the day. There is no Universalist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Noyes were at service. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blake were not. They all arrived here a week ago yesterday on the evening train. We had a Norway delegation there to greet them. Mr. Clark drove them to their Hotel Central in his Hudson. Mr. and Mrs. Blake are staying at the hotel, but Mr. and Mrs. Noyes have a room in a bungalow nearby. We all made a theatre party to see Tom Meighan in "Cappy Ricks" on Monday night. It certainly is pleasant to have a little colony of home folks here.

We are sitting in the Park now, having come early to secure seats well in the shade to hear the Royal Scotch Highlanders play their regular Sunday afternoon concert. There are 25 in the band. A lady soloist, a Scotch tenor who is a second Harry Lauder, a xylophone soloist, a trombone soloist who makes the clearest, sweetest tones, so that one can hardly believe it is coming from a trombone, and a whistler who is conceded to be a wonder. He uses absolutely nothing but his God given gift to imitate every song bird and many animals. He was imitating a number of dogs one afternoon when a big beauty of a dog came running through the park and up the aisle onto the stage, barking and looking for the friends he thought that he heard. Harold Stockton is the whistler's name, he whistles and warbles solos with the band that sound like an orchestra of birds. He entertained at the Masonic Lodge the other evening and told them when asked how he did it, that it was solely with God's help. He said he never went upon the stage without a silent prayer for His guidance and help in using the wonderful talent He had give him to entertain people.

We went by auto to the County Fair at Largo last Thursday, a ride of 25 miles each way. There were the usual midway shows with flying horses, ferris wheel, air ship trips and baby doll prizes and a motordrome performer, or rather two, a lady and man rider. The public schools of St. Petersburg had a fine exhibit of their work in one of the halls. There wree the usual display of art and fancy work in the Woman's Building. A very small showing of live stock, but an exceptionally fine poultry exhibit. The largest sized R. I. Red birds we ever saw, they looked like giants compared with any we had seen, were very noticeable in their pens. The Columbian Wyandottes were fine birds, too. There were all breeds there. The black Minorcas were much larger than any we had seen and there were several pens of huge, glossy black birds called the Jersey Giants and they truly were giants. There was a fine showing of domestic rabbits and hares. The black and white belted ones were beauties. A booth on Florida Bee Culture interested us because we had wondered if it could be much of an industry here as the majority of the flowers, though gorgeous in hue, are without scent. There was every device from the veil and gloves used in hiving them at swarming time to the honey extractors of all sorts. There was a showing of the products in the comb and refined, as well as the bees themselves filling the combs. They were of the 3 Band Italian type, the best breed, they claim, for any climate. They gather honey from the orange blossoms principally and the gall berry which grows like our bush blueberry, 3 ft. high and has a very sweet blossom.

When the mid season is on for orange blossoms, that is when there are more fruits and new buds just coming, bee keepers have fields of pigeon peas sewn and in blossom for them to work on. This is a yellow, very sweet blossom on a very hardy vine which they grind for feed later. The honey is indeed luscious and very clear and beautiful in color.

Another attractive booth was built of corn, yellow and white dent in tile effect with red ears for corner strips or pillars. This had a thatched roof of rice in the straw. It looked some like oats and wheat too a little. It was interesting to learn that there was a factory nearby for preparing the rice for market. In the booth were stock beans and peas which are ground for feed. The horse bean is from 10 inches to 1 1-2 ft. long, 2 in. wide ground pod and all for horse feed. It grows on trees which are also used for their ornamental feathery fern-like foliage. The castor bean shrubs are also ornamental, both in leaf and red, clustery burrs. The chufa is raised quite extensively here, too. It is of the peanut type, yet is a tubar without shell, more like an almond in flavor. They are very sweet and nutty in flavor. The peanut crop was fine, too.

Everything in the exhibit was raised here in Pinellas County.

The canned goods display was exceptionally fine, too; citrus preserves, jelly and candies to tempt us in quantity, color and quality, made of grapefruit, oranges, guavas and loquot plums, also kumquarts and citrons. The grape preserves were fine, too. The scuppernong grape grows not in bunches like our northern ones, but singly ad ripen a pretty pinkish yellow. Their leaves are more round no deep indentations like ours, but they grow on a vine. They raise a Concord, too, and sea grapes and the muscadeen.

The Roselle or Florida Cranberry grows on shrubs and is a deep rose color, not at all like our cranberries. It looks like a flower in shape of a pineapple 1 ½ inches long. The petals are many and daisy like, covering completely a cone seed pod, whitish green in color, the petals are boiled to make the jelly a rich, clear red with raspberry and cranberry flavor. The seed pod is used to make a marmalade.

The sugar apple was another interesting fruit. It looks like a round bunch of pointed grapes, pinkish green in color, the size of a huge orange or small grapefruit. It really is just one big fruit with pointed segments on the surface. It has a sweet taste like an apple some and yet like sugared rose leaves. It is used for preserving but, like peaches and apples, is more luscious right from the tree.

The vegetables looked like Oxford Co. Fair indeed, all but the radishes and sweet potatoes. Radishes were very, very large some the size of a man's leg, yet juicy and never pulpy or too hot. Some of the sweet potatoes weighed 11 lbs. each!

The child welfare nurse had an exhibit of the perfect food for a child up to ten years of age for one day's ration all prepared. Milk each meal with plenty of fruit and green vegetables, eggs, chicken, lamb, and good bread and butter. Three pens of white mice fed correctly and incorrectly illustrated the under nourished and the properly nourished on milk and vegetables, etc. There certainly was a wonderful difference both in size, sleek coat and activity of them.

One exhibition drew crowds—it was a complete facsimile of one wing or sector of the trenches in the late world war. There were the observation posts, shell holes, wire entanglements and all, with the supply trenches in the rear. Every sort of ammunition: shells, shrapnel, hand grenades, guns, and among the latter was the lemon squeezer type that slew President McKinley, was to be seen. The uniforms, helmets, masks and souvenirs were arranged too, each with its placard and data on it. Interesting and horror inspiring photographs of actual incidents hung about the walls.

After we had taken in the whole show so to speak, we drove on to Bellaire and through the Belleview Hotel Grounds. This is the only spot that reminds us at all of home. It is laid out much like Poland Spring, long, picturesque building and beautiful drives and golf courses; and while not so large as Poland Springs, it has the advantage in its extensive water front and long pier with boating and bathing on the Gulf in mid-winter.

While writing this letter, we heard two men talking back of us in the Park. One said, "I'm from Maine, what state is yours?" "Why I'm a Maine man, too, born in Paris, my name is Jackson," said the other. Naturally we turned around and Sol said, "I'm a Norway Jackson, are you Hooper Jackson's boy?" He said, "Yes, I left Norway in '76 and went West when you were a little shaver, but you look like your Uncle Lem, I'd know you were a Jackson." So you see we have added another name to our Norway Colony here. We Norwayites are going to turn out well at the Maine State Society in City Hall, Thursday evening of this week and I may have something of interest to write another time. Kind regards to all.

Sincerely, Eva Bradlee Jackson.

KEPT IN MISERY TWO LONG YEARS

Manchester Man Grew Weaker Day By Day Until He Could Hardly Stand Up—Health Restored

"Before I got Tanlac I had stomach trouble so bad I never felt hungry; but now my apeptite is simply splendid and even the plainest foods taste good to me," said Hubert Berlinguette, of 18 Columbus St., Manchester, N. H.

"Some two years and a half ago I found myself going down hill and up until the time I got Tanlac I never did feel real well. My stomach finally got so bad the least bite of food would make me sick and keep me in pain and misery on account of gas, bloating and heartburn for hours. I kept getting weaker every day, and finally got to where I didn't feel like working and would be so dizzy I could hardly stay on my feet.

"My father persuaded me to try Tanlac and its put me on my feet feeling fine. Nothing I eat upsets my stomach now and I feel so well I can hardly realize that I ever had indigestion. I believe I'm stronger now than ever before and I'll tell anybody Tanlac is a world-beater when it comes to fixing a fellow's stomach up and making him feel like himself."

Tanlac is sold by A. L. Clark Drug Co., Norway; Stowell Bros., Locke's Mills; R. E. Pinkham, East Waterford; W. H. Brown, East Stoneham; Heald, Stearns & Kimball, Lovell, H. L. Hutchins Co., North Fryeburg; L. R. Rounds & Co., Waterford, and P. G. Barrett, Welchville, Me.

WOMAN SUFFERED IN SILENCE

A former resident of New Auburn, Maine, wrote: "There must be lots of women who feel as I did. I suffered in silence on account of my pride, but now I know that a good laxative is essential to good health. I neglected my health, pretending I was all right when I wasn't. I had terrible pains, was 'grouchy' and my headaches almost killed me with pain, and worst of all I had a sallow, unbecoming complexion which was not helped by face powders. Why didn't I try to cure myself rather than pretend? After taking Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative, I now know that a laxative was what I needed. My complexion cleared up blemishes vanished and everyone remarked how much better I looked."

Dr. True's Elixir used for over 70 years. 40c, 60c, $1.20.

IF YOU WANT TO KEEP YOUNG

If you want to keep young in spite of the years, think of yourself as a young man or young woman. Walk about as if you were young and full of life and joy and gladness full of vim, full of force full of ambition. Talk like an ambitious person, one who is overflowing with vitality, energy, and push. If you think of yourself in the future, as to how you shall look, do not picture yourself with more wrinkles, with stooping shoulders and dragging gait; do not think of yourself as declining mentally, or physically. If you think of your future always picture yourself, if at all, as stronger, more vigorous, wiser, more efficient and capable than you are now.

There is no decrepitude, no aging, no declining of powers in the ideal. There are no wrinkles, no creaking joints, no hardening of the arteries or brain-tissues in us that brings on age. As long as we this ideal of the boy or girl in us will not die,—and it is death of the boy or girl n us that brings on age. As long as we keep the youthful spirit, as long as the heart is young and fresh and joyous, as long as we impress the youthful thought on our cells we do not age, no matter what our years may count.—The New Success.

Where Life Is Longest.

Which is the healthiest place in the world?

If the index is the death rate, as it presumably must be, we have to go to the unlikely neighborhood of the antarctic to find it. In the last colonial report from the Falkland islands the death rate for 1917 and 1918 was 5.31 per 1,000. During ten years the death rate in England and Wales did not drop below 13.3, and was as high as 27.6.

Yet the climate of the Falkland islands is vigorous and the country is more bleak and barren than the Shetlands. High winds blow almost constantly, but there is no scarcity of sunshine. To these, Natures' two great disinfectants, is probably due the longevity of the sparse population. —London Tit-Bits.

The Ladies Sewing Circle will meet Friday with Mrs. V. W. Hill.

On Tuesday Feb. 7at 7:30 there will be a card party and social at Concrt Hall, given by the Y. P. C. U. or the benefit of the Organ Fund. Tables will be provided for card playing and other games and later in the evening there will be dancing. Refreshments will be served.

The Parish Committee have had larger pipes connected with the furnace which affords more and better heat in the church.

The monthly teachers meeting was held Tuesday evening at Maford Mann's. A social is being planned for the Sunday School scholars for this month.

Mrs. Hebert Shorey and Miss Della Noyes are to hold a whist party Thursday Feb. at the home of Miss Noyes.

Margaret A. Baker is stenographer and typewriter in the office of John Leavitt, State Agent for Liverpool & London & Globe with Dow & Pinkham, 35 Exchange street, Portland.

Methodist Church Notes

At the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society meeting of Friday evening, Jan. 27th, a program of special interest was given. In addition to the usual readings from the text books and mystery book, a group of girls gave a little play describing how certain dolls went as missionaries.

Members of the Society also gave a demonstration of actual work in India, using national costumes and illustrating how Bible women meet the native women upon the street and teach Christian prayer and hymns which often bear fruit in the home life. Light refreshments were served at the close of the program, Mrs. Lucelia Merriam pouring tea.

The cottage meeting this week was held with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Gibson on Crescent St.

The Ladies Aid meets on Friday afternoon with Mrs Ralph Harriman.

On Friday evening the Finance Committee meets at the parsonage to make plans for raising the budget for the coming church year, carrying out the orders of the Official Board meeting of Jan. 26.

Next Sunday there will be the usual services at morning and evening worship. Sunday School at noon and Epworth League at 6 p. m.

Veranda Club Notes

Veranda Club met with Clara Ames Thursday evening, January 26. Owing the cold weather and sickness of several of the members the attendance was not large. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Nellie Merrill Thursday evening, February 9. Each member will bring thimble and needle for quilt will be tacked after the meeting. Mrs. Addie Buswell will be the hostess.

Mrs. A. J. Stearns gave a lunch Tuesday for her mother, Mrs. Wm. J. Wheeler of South Paris who is visiting at Mr. and Mrs. Stearns' on Orchard Street. Those present were Ellen Brown, Elizabeth Beal, Mrs. Iza Sanborn, Mrs. Fannie Horne, Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett and Mrs. Cyrus Hayes. Most of these ladies were schoolmates. In the afternoon Mrs. H. L. Bartlett, Mrs. B. F. Bradbury, Mrs. J. N. Favor and Mrs. Wm. C. Leavitt were added to the party.

The amusement of sojourners at St. Petersburg, Fla. is talking about the weather. C. G. Blake is no exception. He sends us a carefully minited, seven o'clock temperatures reading from Jan. 19h to 28th inclusive, which averages 67.5 degrees above freezing, the extremes: 44 and 87. This came on a card showing a pretty bunch of fish. The fish came from salt water and we have no interest in 'em.

Daniel O. White has moved his family from one of Edwin Thompson's rents on Whitman street to a camp up in town.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Elizabeth Parrin 167 Main St., Wednesday at 2:30, February 8th. The subject, the mission of the ideal woman is to make the whole world homelike. Roll call will be answered by quotations from Frances Willard. Mrs. Nettie Nevers will be the leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith of Auburn were week end guests of their son, Walter C. Smith and family.

Dr. W. E. Stevens of Portland will resume her practice here Feb. 8th as usual.

Lesson in Dietetics.

What bread needs to make it a perfect food—a perfect food is that which contains protein, carbohydrates, and fat in certain definite proportions—is something with fat in it. Hence bread "and butter," and bread "and dripping," and bread "and cheese." Pork and beans pair quite properly, because the beans supply the absent protein. When you eat beef and potatoes, or roast beef and Yorkshire pudding, the pairing makes a perfect food. The pairing of condiments is not a matter of taste alone. Cabbage is peppered because it was discovered that pepper discounted the excessive action of greenstuff on the bowels. Mustard goes with beef, but not with mutton, because mutton is much more easily digested than beef, and mustard is a first-class digester.—Montreal Herald.

Must Have Known What Was Coming.

"You remember the real estate men who used to advertise that buying your own home was better than paying rent."

"Yes."

"Well, they certainly knew what they were talking about, didn't they?"

Economy.

Without economy none can be rich, and with it few will be poor.—Doctor Johnson.

BAXTER ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY

The Governor Outlines Progressive Program for Maine

Augusta, Maine,
January 31st, 1922

To the People of the State of Maine:

One year ago today upon Governor Parkhurst's untimely death I became Governor of Maine. Governor Parkhurst occupied his office in the Capitol for one and one-half days, and passed away twenty-five days after his inauguration. Without warning the responsibilities of the highest office in the State were placed upon me. My entire time and such ability as I possess have been devoted to the State's affairs, and it is but natural that I seek an endorsement of my administration at the hands of the people whose interests I have served. In accordance with the provisions of the Constitution of Maine the burdens of government that Gov. Parkhurst was to have borne devolved upon me, and I now ask the people of this State if they are satisfied with the management of affairs in the Governor's office during the past year, to give me the approval that is customarily accorded a public servant for burdens honorably carried and duties faithfully discharged.

No citizen may demand election to a public office as a matter of personal right, but I seek the honor of serving my fellow citizens for two years more, and so make this formal announcement of my candidacy. Economy has been practised by the present State administration without impairment of the State's many activities; a considerable reduction in State taxes has been effected and the government of Maine has been conducted on sound business principles; respect for law and the need of self-control have been impressed upon our citizens; the conduct of State affairs has not been influenced by sectionalism or partisanship, nor has the State government been under the domination of any group or class; the rights of all have been respected and it has been emphasized that the possession of rights implies the obligation of duties, while full recognition has been given to the new status of women in matters of government; the educational needs of the children of the State have been given close attention; the unfortunate and the defective wards of the State have been provided for, and a program laid out and work begun to bring others under the State's care and to secure suitable accommodations for them; the health of the people has been a principal concern of the administration; a constant improvement has been shown in road building and in road maintenance; and the several departments of the State have manifested an excellent spirit of cooperation with the Chief Executive.

The program for the future includes the continuance of what already has been begun, together with placing the State on a sound financial basis by insisting upon legislative responsibility for all expenditures and by the proper limitation of the size and use of the State Contingent Fund; further reduction in taxation; stimulation of municipal authorities to provide adequate school facilities and properly to support the teachers who are devoting themselves unselfishly to the rising generation; the establishment of a State Park at Mt. Katahdin in so far as the State's finances will permit; the storage of water to increase the value and facilitate the development of water powers and which can be accomplished without fear of involving the State in any dangers that might be incident to public ownership and operation, and without encroaching upon the field of private enterprise; encouragement of the farming interests of Maine and of scientific forestry methods; renewed efforts to retain Maine in its position as first among law-abiding States; the promotion of industry; the protection of property and of the right of the individual to enjoy the fruit of his initiative, and the recognition of the principle that the interests of all can be served best by each individual rendering faithful service in and to the community; the advancement of business interests of private citizens as well as of companies that serve the public; the proper advertising and development of the State's boundless resources; and the maintenance of Maine's independence as a sovereign State, having due regard to our obligation to and relations with the Federal Government.

An unusual opportunity has been afforded me to serve my native State and in the discharge of the duties and in the solution of the problems that devolved upon me by reason of the provisions of our State Constitution, I have acquired an experience that I believe can be used to the advantage of the people of Maine.

I hope for increasing wisdom, a wider understanding of the needs of Maine, and an enlarged appreciation of my opportunities for service, so that I may continue my work with more and more of justice and efficiency throughout the remainder of my present term, and if it shall be so decreed, for the term following. The welfare of the people of this State is my chief concern and above all else I seek to be worthy to secure and retain the confidence of my fellow citizens.

(Signed) PERCIVAL P. BAXTER,
Governor of Maine

TURKEY RAISING

According to the summary printed in the Boston Herald, "a survey of farmers" to determine the reasons for the decline of turkey raising industry in the past twenty years in New England indicates that climatic conditions, difficulties in rearing the chicks and western competition are the most prominent causes. Farmers declare, according to this report, that the dry lands of the West make it easy to raise the birds in large flocks, while the variable weather of the East adds an uncertainty to the industry which the farmers do not care to combat. The report continues:

One of the principal difficulties which the farmer of New England meets in turkey raising is disease. The wet spring and variable weather brings on what is known as "blackhead," killing many chicks. If a chick gets wet or cold it is likely to die, and as the birds need a lot of country to roam about in, the farmer cannot find the time to chase after them while he has other work to do.

The decline of the turkey raising industry in New England has been in progress much longer than twenty years. There was a time, well within the memory of persons now living, when practically every farmer raised turkeys as a matter of course, reckoning as his only chance against success the tendency of the turkey to roam widely and thus become an easy prey to foxes and other predatory wild animals. Then came a time, not long after the Civil war period, when bad years became more and more frequent until finally turkey raising in Maine at least, became the exception rather than the rule. And the farmers, even those with the most experience, have not been able to agree upon the cause for this decline. Some have contended that the turkey being only semi-domesticated, needs a wide, free range, and that New England is now too thickly settled to permit success. Others contend that the ground over which turkeys range year after year becomes "poisoned" and so unfit for the industry. Still others claim that turkey raising has never been profitable since the Colorado potato beetle made its appearance in the eastern states. And there are those who attribute the decline to change of climate, to the high protective tariff, to the shiftlessness of farmers and consequent lack of care for their young flocks. That is might be any one of these would be a more logical conclusion if these were years when everybody succeeded in raising turkeys. Last season, in western Maine, for example, the weather was unusually dry, but there were no grasshoppers, and the turkey crop was a failure. Where the eggs hatched well, as they rarely did, disease soon became rampant in the flocks and comparatively few birds reached maturity. With home-grown birds selling at prices that would have made our father's eyes hang out on their cheeks in wonder it is foolish to talk of western competition as a reason for the decline of the industry in New England. Lack of care for the young birds, like that given them when the industry was flourishing here, is probably one of the most potent causes of failure. And there are other contributory causes, causes that may be taken into consideration when seeking for the reasons why New England does not now raise its own corn and wheat and its own beef, pork and muttons as in days of yore. We have the soil, the climate, the opportunity, but we lack the energy, the ambition, the will to succeed. And perhaps the worst feature of the situation lies next to the fact that because we cannot raise turkeys therefore we think we cannot raise anything else.—Biddeford Journal.

Boy Scouts Organized

A big send-off was given the local movement Monday evening when thirty-five boys and a good representation of the business men gathered at Grand Army hall. Acting Assistant Executive Harold C. Perham of West Paris gave the boys an inspiring talk and with the local council formed an organization. Plans were laid for a banquet in the near future and many good things helpful to the advancement of the boys were discussed. A scoutmaster will be chosen and the troop will soon become an active factor in the community. The local organization is as follows:

Pres.—Dr. D. M. Stewart.
Sec.—Robert W. Wheeler.
Treas.—Sherman T. Oliver.
Publicity Director—Albert D. Park.
Advisory Board—Dr. Stewart, Robert W. Wheeler, Sherman T. Oliver, Guy I. Swett, Albert D. Park, Chas. H. Howard, Arthur E. Forbes, George Colby, Wesley M. Hammond, Sherman C. Ordway.

Given Surprise

Twenty-four of the officers and teachers of Deering Memorial Sunday School met and went in a body to the home of Dr. C. L. Buck Thursday evening for a social time. They carried their refreshments, ice cream, cake and crackers with them. While this was a perfect surprise to Dr. Buck he proved himself equal to the occasion. Rev. Mr. McGlauflin made very appropriate remarks calling attention to the length of time (over 25 years) that Dr. Buck had served the society in the capacity of Sunday School Superintendent of the various improvements that had been made during the time. Of the number of workers who had passed away and the new ones who had come in to take their places. He also spoke very feelingly of the influence of a service of this kind on the church, the community, the pupils and the person themselves. Dr. Buck responded very fittingly and a very social hour was spent ere the party "broke up."

Entertained Class

Glenna Knight entertained her Sabbath School Class at her home on Maple St. Saturday evening. The following officers were lected for the ensuing year:

The stereopticon lecture, "The Thrilling Tale of the Philippines" at the Congregational vestry Sunday evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed. Eighty-two artistically colored slides flashed on the screen a graphic picture story of Uncle Sam's methods there since acquiring the islands. Road making, sanitation, and education were principal features brought out. Religious work is left to the churches, and the great need of intensive Missionary effort was vividly portrayed. The lecture was under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society and a collection received for missions. Rev. Edward A. Morris read the lecture and Robert Wise operated the stereopticon. Howard Shaw with a saxaphone assisted during the opening song service.

The annual report of the South Paris Village Corporation water commission to the public utilities commission for the past year shows a total fixed capital; Jan. 1, 1922 of $80,327.26, an increase over last year, $1,589.99. This increase represents the cost of the chlorinating system installed some months ago. Funded debt is $63,000, bonds outstanding of the original issue $68,000. Outstanding notes $6,000, a reduction of $1,000 during the year by assessment of the village corporation..

Roger Davis of Montclair, N. J. has leased two stores in the Paris Building Association block now under construction and will open a department dry goods store when the place is ready for occupancy. Mr. Davis is thoroughly acquainted with the business having been employed for some time as buyer for several large New York establishments. The stores will occupy the corner on Main and High streets.

The illustrated lecture on the Philippines given in the Congregational church Sunday evening was repeated Monday at the Brick Grammar school for the benefit of the grades. The slides, lecture and stereopticon were loaned by the Christian Endeavor Society. Lena Franck, principal of the school read the accompaning lecture.

The Opportunity Class entertained members of the Congregational church and parish and Sunday school in the vestry, Jan. 26. A supper was served followed by a program including selections by an orchestra; piano duet by Nellie M. Jackson and Helen M. Barnes; readings by Mrs. Thelma Morris and vocal selections by a trio comprising Rev. E. A. Morris, Morton V. Bolster and Geo. Cutting. Members of the orchestra were Howard W. NORWAY AND VICINITY

Mildred F. Millett is visiting Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Chandler at Mechanic Falls.

"Mickey" Welch: Observed a wild goose flying down the bog toward Ward 8 Friday afternoon. The bird was heavy and the largest one I ever saw, he kept about fifty feet above the ice, searching for open water. Something unusal for January 27. Comment.—Goose was flying south, has this any connection with the unusual influx of the Arctic Snowy White Owls reported about the state. Extreme cold weather is predicted by many.

At the meeting of Mt. Hope Rebekah Lodge Friday evening the degree will be worked, followed by a buffet lunch. Each one is expected to carry a plate of refreshments.

Helen Carroll, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Bickford, returned to her home in Hanover, Mass., Tuesday. Her mother, Mrs. M. H. Carroll, has also been a recent guest at Mr. Bickford's.

The young lady clerks employed at the Carroll-Jellerson Shoe Co. office enjoyed a dinner at the Alberta and theatre party at the Rex, Thursday evening.

High School Caduceus

The students of Norway High School have received the January number of their magazine, The Caduceus, this being No. 1 of volume sixteen. The issue is dedicated to Harold A. Anderson of Norway, who, during the past years has managed the school dramatics with success, and otherwise given valuable assistance.

The carefully edited magazine contains many brief original sketches, stories and poems. Pep and jest is conspicuous in the "Pointers" and "School Notes." Football is prominent in the athletic department and the Alumni directory, dating from the class of 1879 is complete and interesting. Many advertisements show good business management, and a loyal spirit on the part of citizens in the Twin Towns.

In the numerous full page half-tones can be found an excellent likeness of Harold A. Anderson; the football squad; pen and ink cartoons, and snap shots of students while "off stage."

MONTHS OF SUFFERING

How a Baltimore Girl Recovered Her Health

Baltimore, Maryland.—"For several months I suffered with severe backache and general weakness. I could not sleep comfortably at night for pains in my back. I found your book at home one day and after reading it began at once to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very good results and some of my girl friends are taking it now. You may use this letter to help other girls, as the letters in your book helped me."—ROSE WAIDNER, 3018 Roseland Place, Baltimore, Md.

That is the thought so often expressed in letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. These women know what they have suffered, they describe their symptoms and state how they were finally made well. Just plain statements, but they want other women to be helped.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine made from medicinal roots and herbs, and without drugs, to relieve the sickness women so often have, which is indicated by backache, weak feelings, nervousness, and no ambition to get anything done or to go anywhere. It has helped many women. Why not try it?

TAXATION AND HIGH COST OF LIVING

Europe's shortage of food is huge and this condition will require enormous supplies from the United States. The Western farmers should not lack good markets for their surplus products. They should have lower freight and transportation rates as indeed should all business interests. Senator Watson of Indiana and Senator Robinson of Arkansas are sponsors for a bill to reduce passenger and freight rates and to make the railroads issue an interchangeable mileage book whereby general passenger rates would be 2½ cents a mile. They claim that lower rates would boom business, put about 100,000 empty cars at work and the railroads and transportation lines on a paying basis. The lowering of the wage scale is one of the most important things to be done.—News Item.

From the Boston daily papers come the news that the chief opponent of Gov. Baxter in the primaries in June has come out with a statement that he will conduct his candidacy on the lines of opposition to the state's taking over the water powers within its borders. This would seem to be assumed, for there is no such issue in Maine politics. Any proposition of that nature would have to be voted on and from all indications, it would be snowed under by a tremendous majority. The people are apparently not considering how more tax burdens can be imposed but less.

The mass of the people of all parties praise Governor Baxter, administration of the finances of the state and lowering of the tax rate. Careful interviewing of business men and substantial citizens, show that the tax question is the one topic that is uppermost in their minds. It is a good time to down all candidates of "The Interests."—Comment.

It has cropped out that the "farmer's bloc" of the middle west, in Congress is not for the farmers of the whole country, but only for the section which has given it its name. Senator Moses of New Hampshire discovered this and exposed it. He seems to be the coming leader among the senators from New England.—Comment.

Secretary of the Treasury, Mellen, warns Congress that the passing of a soldiers' bonus bill means measures for increase of taxes. The principle of a bonus is bad, but men who have been disabled in their country's service are entitled to adequate relief. If such a bill passes it will be a very long day before the country gets back to normal conditions. Bonus and profiteering will take much of the glory of achievement out of America's part in the Great World War.—Comment.

In a school of one of the wards in the city of Rochester, N. H., the pupils are being supplied with a warm dinner at three cents each.—News item. Good idea, too much cannot be done for the health and comfort of the school children.

The Federal Trade Commission in a recent report to Congress states that 3 big tobacco companies have been engaged in conspiracies with numerous sectional and local jobbers associations to keep up the price of tobacco products. It is claimed that they are the successors of old tobacco combinations which were dissolved under antitrust laws in 1911. What will Congress do about it?—News Item. That is easily answered, it will probably do just about what it has with coal profiteering—that is nothing, leaving the infernal scamps to further skin the consumer.

The stock of turkeys in cold storage Jan. 1 was 7,555,000 lbs. This was over two and a quarter times the amount in storage, Dec. 1. It shows that thousands of people refused to pay the abnormally high prices for turkey at Christmas.—News Item.

The packers' profit seems to have slumped, last year Armour & Company lost $31,700,000. and Swift & Co. reported a deficit of $19,800,000.—News Item. Perhaps a collection ought to be taken up for them among the poor.

A TRIP TO THE DEVIL'S WASH-BOWL

(By George Morton, South Paris)

If you will look at the map of Northern New Hampshire, you will find a small dot about the size of a pea, that is marked the "Devil's Wash Bowl." This small sheet of water has been inaccessible to any one but lumbermen and sportmen who are willing to take a long tiresome tramp, but it has now had logging roads cut so that it is possible to ride within a mile or two of the pond in the winter, when there are lumbering operations going on in that section.

The party included four boys or rather four young men, and two others whose wrinkles about their eyes, and whose gray hairs would indicate that they were no longer boys, and perhaps could hardly be called young men either.

The first part of the trip, which was seventy-five miles in auto from South Paris, Maine, to Crystal, N. H., following along the Androscoggin River is a beautiful trip, which one would appreciate more if they went a thousand or a few thousand miles to see, but those that see it so often do not appreciate the wonderful beauty of the mountains, river, and valleys, which in some spots are hardly to be equalled anywhere in the country.

We rolled along swiftly over this beautiful road, the wonderful landscape sliding past us in a never ending panorama of beauty. The forest covered hills of Maine, gradually changing to the rugged granite mountains of the White Mountain range, with the river winding along through the valleys, made it a trip to be long remembered, even for the ride itself, which was but the first part of the trip.

We stopped at Crystal, N. H. the first night, which was where we planned to begin our tramp, and where we had the use of a bungalow, a small house for our particular use. After a good night's sleep and a hearty breakfast, with our knap-sacks on our backs, and hearts full of anticipation we started on our tramp which we were told was from twelve to twenty miles long, according to the ideas of the one that you were talking with, and as few had been there and there was a scarcity of information, we expected that we had quite a trip ahead of us.

A Twelve Mile Tramp Before Dinner

Our way led us along a wood road, which was good enough traveling, and as it was a splendid morning and the blue sky and invigorating air seemed to make our feet light for the first part of the trip, we made good time and covered the miles rather fast, with the four younger members in the lead and the other two not far behind.

After a few miles our knapsacks began to weigh a little more than they did at first and the boys thought it might be a good thing to lighten them a little, which they did, by eating what they called a little lunch. Soon after a short rest we made a mile or two more, and then stopped a while to see if there were any trout in the brook near by, and took another rest. Starting again, we did not stop until we had covered a distance that was called twelve miles by the lumbermen.

We had become very thirsty after leaving the brook and as we thought the lumber camp we were heading for was only a short way ahead, a mile or two, we kept going on, in hopes that the camp would be just around the next turn in the road, but there were many turns in the road, and the miles were longer and knapsacks were much heavier than when we started, and it seemed as if a good drink of water would be worth its weight in gold. At first we looked for small brooks, then for springs, but there were none on that end of the trip, then a clean puddle would have invited us, at last any kind of a mud puddle would do, and finally we beecame convinced that New Hampshire had really gone dry as had been reported with more or less in-accuracy for some time. But finally, when the two old fellows were beginning to think that home was the best place in the world, their weary thirsty plodding was arrested by loud shouts from the front ranks, and after arriving where the shouts came from, there spread out before us was a small pond, perhaps a half mile long and with a set of lumber camps on the shore just at the foot of the hill where we were standing.

It is strange what a change it makes with the physical body when the doubts and depression of uncertainties are suddenly changed to actual knowledge, and we know that the objects we are striving for are right within our grasp. A minute before we were wearily putting one foot ahead of the other, thinking that perhaps not far away was plenty of good water and a chance to rest, but with that joyful signal, new life was put into us all and the boys ran down the hill like four young deer and the other two were not far behind them. At the lumber camp we found a spring full of as clear and cold water as ever came out of the ground, it was about four feet square and perhaps two feet deep. The boys got there first but there was enough left for the other two, and all six of us thought there never was any water tasted as good as that and surely there never was any better and our thirst and our troubles vanished like dew before the sun.

We Find a Lumber Camp De Luxe

After we had satisfied our thirst we began to look about and see what we could find in the camps but before we did this we became aware that we were not alone, for there was a keeper or caretaker, for this was one of the many camps of the International Paper Co., that are scattered about every-where throughout that section of the country. If we can judge by his words and actions, he was glad to see us for he said he had not seen an "outsider" since May, when he had a fisherman come to visit him. He put the whole camp at our disposal, and he was a royal host, and we enjoyed his hospitality the rest of the day and at night, and the next morning until we went away.

This was a very large camp, large enough for a hundred men, and we were surprised to find iron cots with real springs and mattresses, so far away from civilization. We proceeded to get our dinner with the assistance of our generous host, and that dinner will also be a pleasant memory with us for a long time. Here we began to make enquiries about the "Devil's Washbowl" which was still two or three miles away, and asked about the location the best way to reach it, and the probability of getting any trout. At about that time another lumberman came along from another of the International Paper Co. camps, that was not far away, and told us that we might perhaps get some fish if we could get out far enough. When we asked him about the nature of the bottom of the pond, he replied in surprise that "there is no bottom to it, and the mud is nine miles deep."

Just how he came by his measurements whether by estimation or actual soundings, I do not know, but from what we learned the next day, I am not inclined to dispute him. After dinner we fished about the pond by the camp and found the trail to the "Devil's Washbowl" but as it was so late and we had so good a place to spend the night we went back to the lumber camp, and after a good supper consisting largely of the trout we had caught that afternoon, we prepared our beds, and the most of the party were soon lost in slumber.

The next morning we were up early and after satisfying our appetites, which had grown continually since we started on the trip, we again shouldered our knap-sacks and started for the final destination of our trip. It was a hot morning, much warmer than the day before, and there was no wind and we were thankful that the distance was not long. After a walk of perhaps an hour through a trail-less woods, we at last came to the shore of the small pond that we had come to see. It is a pond of perhaps ten acres, settled down between the hills with one small outlet, and with the trees growing clear to the edge of the water, and we found that the lumberman that said the mud was nine miles deep, evidently knew what he was talking about. The boys got ready to test the depth of the mud, and very cautiously, with one hand on a sapling, stuck one foot in the water and mud, but they did not let go the sapling and found nothing solid, so they did not venture in with two feet. They afterwards found an old raft, which by skillful navigation they pushed and paddled out a short way from the shore, far enough to get a fish line down into the muddy-water, but with no result. There were no fish there, not even an eel or a horn-pout, to say nothing of the red spot trout that we had come so far to catch.

If we could have caught a pickerel or a frog it would have seemed good to us, but there was nothing, no sign of life in the water above the mud or in the mud below.

How The Pond Was Named

I was very much disappointed for I had visions of getting many large trout, with all the exciting adventures that go with a fishing trip. I had imagined that the pond was a deep clear pond, with a rocky bottom, the home of the speckled beauties that men will go so far to get, and I had visions of a camp-fire at night against high rocky ledge on the shore of the pond with the trout, and frogs legs and bacon and the smell of the wood fire, all the pleasant things that go with camping out and a night under the stars. But this was different, it was a hot sweaty morning, no wind, hardly a breath of air, and with a few acres of muddy water on top, and nine miles of mud below. And so I found a shady place to stay and wait for the boys to have enough of paddling in the water and get ready to return.

While we were waiting on the bank for the navigators to get the raft in to the pond and back again, a more or less learned discussion was carried on by the full council as to how this little bit of water and mud should get such a name as the "Devil's Washbowl" and while historical facts and figures are lacking, and we have no way to prove that we are right, we reasoned it out in this way, which in the absence of proof to the contrary the members of this party, at least, are going to accept as true. In the early history of the world when his Satanic Majesty was not so hardened in sin, and crime as he has been for the past centuries, he had periodic seasons of repentance when he wished to forget his past and change his way of living, and clean up and start new.

It was perfectly reasonable for him to seek this secluded and beautiful spot, nestled in among the mountains, and it is no wonder that he often came here to wash the dirt and dust of travel from his body, and as he continued to come, it is only natural that the outlet of the pond itself should gradually become, as it is now, a little water on top and nothing but mud below. Just how long a process this was, and how many centuries it took to do this we cannot determine even to our own satisfaction, but we know that the pond is there and that it bears the name of the "Devil's Washbowl" and these facts together with what we learned about the muddy bottom we are going to consider as sufficient proof that the name got its origin in this way. But even if I was disappointed there was pleasure in the scene and I was glad I was there and glad to be alive and the everyday cares of a busy life were far way and almost forgotten.

Overhead we had seen two eagles circling about, perhaps wondering what right we had to intrude on their fishing ground. At the upper end of the pond was a king-fisher as still as the limb it was perched on, and a flock of wild ducks were uneasily moving about as if they were anxious for us to go away and leave their pond to them. We had not found what we expected but we had the pleasures of the trip and it was a pleasure that was enjoyed by the two older ones as well as the boys. And right here I want to say, that to a stranger it might seem that there were four boys, and two others somewhat older and in fact I thought that way myself when we first started on the trip, but after a short time there were six boys instead of four, and if two of the boys had gray hair it was prematurely gray, for there surely were six boys and no one else on the rest of the trip, and if I speak of them as older it is simply to distinguish between those boys that had gray hair and those that did not.

We Turn Our Steps Toward Home Again

When we had fully decided that there was no use to fish any longer, we again shouldered our knap-sacks and started to retrace our steps. We soon reached the lumber camp and said good-bye to our host of the night before, and after about two miles of walking we came to the east branch of Phillips Brook, and began fishing at a dam that controls the flow of water when the pulp wood is being driven down in the Spring. It was a little after noon when we began to fish and as we had good luck we soon had all we wanted to eat and we stopped to get our dinner of fried bacon and trout, which was devoured with our usual camp appetites.

The afternoon was spent in walking down the bed of the brook and fishing as we went along for a distance of three or four miles. We had varied success, but during the afternoon we got all we wanted to eat and enough for two good meals and as it was beginning to get dark we came to a point where the lumber road crossed the brook and where an unused set of lumber camps were still standing.

We had our camping blankets and full outfit for camping with us, but the weather looked threatening and the certainty of rain convinced us that we better not look any farther for a camping place but to prepare our beds before it got too dark. This time we had no spring beds or mattresses but we found a part of the large camp that looked as if the roof was tight and with some hay that was there we fixed up some beds that made us quite comfortable. We found a good lot of dry wood that some campers had left and we built a great fire just outside of the camp and in a spot that would give us good light so we could see inside and we enjoyed the evening by lying about the fire and drying our feet and clothes which the long walk down the brook had made necessary. Those who have never known the comfort and pleasure of a camp-fire have surely missed something in this life. We enjoyed this pleasure as we spent the evening about the great fire that warmed us through and through. We finally had to go to bed as the fire burned low for we could not see after the fire was out.

Sometime in the night it began to rain and as the roof was not far above our heads, we quickly awoke and congratulated ourselves that we were safely under cover. However we slept well, if some of the boys did get a few drops on them and were kept moving about to find a place where the rain did not come through, and as soon as it began to get light we began to stir about and see what we could do about a fire. Most any one can build a fire with dry wood when the weather is right and everything is dry, but to build a fire when everything is wet, is another matter. But one of the gray headed boys was equal to the occasion and with the aid of a roll of tarred paper that we found in the camp, and some poles, we fixed up a shelter and finally got a good fire started and cooked our breakfast of breakfast bacon, fried trout and flap jacks and if we did have to dodge round in the rain between the fire and the camp, the breakfast was a great success and another star was added to the crown of the chief cook who was one of the boys whose hair was not gray.

We were about seven miles from our starting point and as the rain gave no appearances of stopping, we decided the best thing to do was to make no other stops for fishing or anything else, but to make the best time for home. We all had our rubber blankets or "ponchos" and were prepared for any kind of weather, so when we started out, with our knapsacks on our backs and our ponchos covering us completely, excepting our heads, we looked more like six weary hand organ grinders, with our organs on our backs, than like six sportsman out on a pleasure trip. But in spite of our appearance and the down-pouring rain, there were no disconsolate ones in that party and the singing and shouting that came from the four younger ones, told in no uncertain tones that the last end of the trip was no less pleasant because the rain was "falling alike on the just and the unjust." The seven miles were gradually passed and about the middle of the forenoon we came again to our starting point, just as a heavy shower which had apparently been waiting for us to get safely under cover, began to really let loose, and the floods descended and covered the earth.

The Wild Life That We Saw on Our Trip

Every lover of the woods must be a lover of the birds and animals also, for the two go together, and it was with eager eyes that we watched and took note of every bird and animal that we saw on the trip.

First we saw a large flock of wild ducks, as we rode up the valley in the auto, and by stopping and getting out and making a short detour through the bushes we got a good view, before they saw us. It was a very large flock, larger than I have ever seen in a river or pond, and while we could not count them I think there must have been at least fifty of them. When they found they were being watched they turned down the river and swam swiftly in the current, raising themselves on their wings and fairly making the water white with foam as they lifted themselves above the surface..

At one time we saw two large bald eagles circling above us, and at one time we saw another one alone, sailing with the greastest of ease and with no apparent motion, ascending with each circle, above to the fleecy clouds. They are the real air ships which the Almighty intended, slipping along faster than the wind, and in complete silence, not noisily announcing themselves and dropping bombs on a helpless world below.

It is rather strange that the ordinary birds love the society of men better than the deep solitude of the woods, and one can see more birds near the village and in the orchards and by the road sides than they can in the woods away from the homes of men. I watched for birds all the way on the trip but saw very few. There were a few king-fishers along the streams and once I saw a hermit thrush and a few warblers of different kinds, but the many ordinary small birds were not to be seen.

We saw many partridges and came upon one flock that we waited for them to get out of the road and let us pass, and they showed no sign of being alarmed. At one time I heard the loud complaining scream of the pileated wood-pecker, which is rather uncommon, although there are some to be seen occasionally. I did not see him, he was too far away, but their note is like nothing else in the woods and when once heard cannot be forgotten. As we were hurrying along in the rain on that last morning, we came upon a mink, hunting for frogs in the mud puddles in the road. The mink was black and was nervously poking its pointed nose into every part of the little puddles. While we were watching another mink appeared from the brook near by and joined in the hunt. The last mink was larger and brown in color and we watched them both for several minutes, standing perfectly motionless so they would not detect our presence. A mink is the most tireless and most active of any animal we have in our woods, they do not rest for an instant, but are incessantly moving like a flash, with their pointed nose always ready to pounce upon their prey.

As we were approaching the lumber camp on the first night is was getting dusky and we caught, just a glimpse of something white. Of course every woodsman or nature lover knows what that means, and we instantly stopped to watch where the white flag of the deer could be seen next. The deer stopped and the flag was lowered, and it was with trouble that we located him, but we did finally and just then the flash of white was again seen and with a few noiseless bounds, and in much less time than it takes to tell it, the deer was gone and beyond our sight or hearing. How a deer can get out of sight and hearing so quickly is one of the mysteries of the woods. A cow the same size of a deer would go lumbering along making noise enough and taking time enough so that it would be easy to follow, but the deer was given wings and silence by the Almighty, for they can vanish from sight in broad daylight, and if it were not for their tell-tale white flag their hunters would have hard work to see them.

When we stopped at the lumber camp for our first night, we saw a white dove flying about the buildings and apparently very much at home. The care-taker told us that the dove was all alone, and had been there all summer, spending a part of each day at that camp, and the rest of the time at another camp about three miles away. I had never before known of a dove choosing a solitary life and especially one so far away from the villages and cities where doves love the noise and bustle of the everyday world. What may have been the reason why the dove preferred the solitude of the woods, I cannot say, but she came and went several times while we were there, and always in one direction, back and forth to the other lumber camp, as if it was her duty to watch over them both.

These few days spent in this way, while full of labor and somewhat strenuous for one whose muscles were not kept in a proper condition, were filled with much pleasure and we all returned to our homes again feeling as if we had a little more to look forward to, and as if life was a little brighter, and more pleasant because of what we had seen and done.

And especially to the gray headed boys, whose western horizon is not so far away as to the others, and to whom it seemed as if the laughter, the singing and the boyish jokes of the younger ones had imparted some of their youth to them also, and each had taken from the other what seemed to do good to all. If I was called upon to give advice to middle aged men, who are beginning to think that the piazza and the fireside and the daily routine of life is about all there is to live for, and who when they do think of a vacation, think of spending it with men like themselves who have similar tastes and desires, I would tell them that if they want to get a real vacation, for the mind as well as the body, and to renew their youth again, to do as we did on this trip and have the greater number of the party, not old men like themselves, but boys, filled with the vigor and the freshness of their young life, and learn to be a boy with them and to look once more at the beautiful world through the rose colored glasses of youth.

"The Private Tutor"

The three-act drama, "The Private Tutor' was presented by the high school in the grange hall, Wednesday, January 25, with the following cast of characters:

Fred Spencer, who believes that experience is the best teacher.....Henry Briggs
George Carothers, his chum, who also seeks experience.....Karl Briggs
Mr. Spencer, his father, who owns an oil well.....Simon Farr
Hans Dinkledefer, his undoing the leader a little German band....Stanley Perham
Richard, servant at Spencer's.....Howard Wardwell
Mrs Spencer, Fred's mother, who feels the responsibility of the oil well and has social aspirations.....Myrtle Brock
Dolly Spencer, his sister, who has a mind of her own.....Annie Chandler
Miss Snap, a detective.....Iola Chandler

The play was unique, funny and with a good moral ring. The college chums began to cover a misdemeanor with falsehood which required a good many only to be found out at last after all. They all had parts well adapted to the individual and all took their parts fine. The high school orchestra with Miss Dean of South Paris, their teacher, for a leader, played a number of selections which were fine and Louvie Peabody and Leona Marston sang a duet. There was a house of appreciative listeners. Ice cream was sold at the close and a social held. They went to West Sumner last Saturday and played it again. They netted for the high school classes about $40.00 in all.

Wednesday, Feb. 1, the E. E. Locke Class of the Universalist Sunday school will serve a public supper consisting of baked beans, salads and pastry at 6 o'clock. A social will follow.
